CLERKS' ASSOCIATION.

An Organization Will Be Effected in

This City. State Organizer Nelson Teets, of Scranton, is expected this week, in order to perfect the organization of a branch of the Retail Clerks' National Protective association. A committee is now seeking the required membership, and already some forty of the clerks of this city have signed the application for a charter. A delegation of the order will come from Scranton to help in the crganizating

The society is one for mutual benefit, and there is attached to it an insurance feature which will be useful and beneficial. It is desirable that such a union should exist, for, in questions of early closing, the celebrations of holidays and matters of general interest there should be united effort.

Evangelist Crittenton's Farewell. The Presbyterian church was filled te overflowing on Sunday evening and many were unable to gain admittance when Mr. Crittenton held his farewell service. Rev. T. E. Jepson in behalf of the pasters and people of the city expressed warm appreciation of the selfsacrificing efforts of the evangelist and Mr. Wallace. He wished them God speed as they passed on their way. At the suggestion of Rev. Charles Lee a rising vote of thanks was returned them by the congregation. A Florence mission may be one result of the effort Miss Decker of the Scranton mission met with the ladies yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of the Presbyterian chuch to consider the Young Men's Institute Day.

About thirty members of the Young Men's Institute were present at the last meeting to make arrangements fo the observance of "Institute Day" at Harvey's lake on Sept. 20. Attorney W. F. #### TAYLOR.

There could be no stronger testimonal of the widespread regret caused by the death of Ira I. Atherton than the immense concourse of friends which atended the obsequies of this lamented resident and citizen yesterday morning. Long before the hour set for the departure of the funeral cortege his large residence on Main street was filled by mourners and sympathizers. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. N. G. Parke, of Pittston, and Rev. L. R. Foster, of the Presbyterian church, of this place, of which the deceased was a member. Owing to the present church being hardly large enough the services were held in the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. Mr. Parke and Mr. Foster in their remarks made fitting reference to the exemplary character of the deceased. The wide acquaintance of the deceased and the high esteem in which he was held brought a very large attendance from up and down the valley to the funeral, The Methodist Episcopal church choir under direction of Professor David E. Jones, rendered several selections. The pall bearers were Messrs, John S. Jenkins, of Pittston; Jesse Gangwer, Frederick Courtright, Scott Blesecker, Edward Decker and George Davenport. Many floral offerings were given by friends and relatives and they presented a most beautiful appearance. At the close of the funeral services the remains were borne to the Presbyterian rector T. J. Davis. Walter Hughes, of Hyde Park, visit-ed relatives in this place on Sunday. Messrs, Charles Grogan, Anthony Connors, William Cleary, A. McCovick and John Connors, of this place, attended a soirce party yesterday in South

The Hotel Proprietor Decided to Continue the Business.

A certain member of congress who is somewhat impressed with himself and his own importance went to Boston once upon a time and stayed at the Tremont house-they say Tremmont in Boston, you know, and Treemont out in Chicago. He didn't like the hotel. He didn't like the table. The beds displeased him. The rooms were not should have been. When he went to the clerk's desk in the office to pay his bill on leaving, the congressman's displeasure found vent in words.

"I was never so uncomfortable in my life," he said to the clerk, "Your hotel is the worst in the country, sir, and I want to tell you one thing-one thing
